BETTER THE FIRST TIME

Purpose of a congressional hearing is to let the pros and cons rattle off the sounding boards for the benefit of public opinion. It would be a lot easier for legislators, if all they wanted was information, to take witnesses into a back room and quiz them over a glass of warm milk.

From this standpoint, the appearance of Joseph P. Kennedy, retiring ambassador to Great Britain, before the house foreign affairs committee has been strictly a flop. Perhaps it was the fault of the men who questioned him; there weren't any of what is known in the amusement business good "straight men" among them. Perhaps it was the fault of the witness, because his radio speech on the same subject was a jumble, too.

Evidently, Kennedy is trying to say something. Men as well known as he is don't waste time making nonsense noises to amuse themselves. The thing he has on his chest and is trying to get off perhaps was described better last October when he was newly home from London and clutching a microphone standard to tell his fellow Americans to vote a straight Democratic ticket, starting with Franklin D. Roosevelt.

He said then: "We are rearming because it is the only way in which America can stay out of war. If we rearm fast enough America will stay out of war. It is today our only guarantee of peace. . . . If blame there must be (for lack of a crusading spirit in rearmament) we all must share in the inherent weakness of our democratic system where force and propaganda have no place, even in the vital job of rearming." In short, Mr. Kennedy has faith only in a heavily armed United States and no faith in that if it means falling back on strong-arm and hot-air methods, both out of place in a democracy.

A FIBROUS AMERICAN

This is by way of being a remote control shout of praise for James C. McReynolds, who has notified the President he wants to retire from the supreme court next Feb. 1.

Justice McReynolds, in performance of the work he was paid to do, was a man of fibrous conviction. He was, in fact, a fibrous American, something like the woody stalk of asparagus that shows up in every batch. It was in large part inability to masticate and get rid of him that maddened New Dealers and goaded them into doing the thing that tipped off the country to some of their less pleasant potentialities—the supreme court packing proposal.

Individuals like Justice McReynolds are an impediment to progress. They find it difficult to rearrange their principles and observations to accommodate New Thought movements and More Abundant Life crusades. Mulishly, they plant their feet where they want their feet to be and laugh loudly and coarsely at infuriated fuss-budgers who shriek that there ought to be a law against such stuff. Singlehanded, they strip years off the lives of Uplifters.

They are little short of perilous to progress, insofar as change has anything to do with the real thing. They take almost devilish delight in poking at hybrid developments with their old-fashioned umbrellas till at last they find a weak place so they can crow about it.

They have maddened the streamlined thinkers of every generation—and nearly all worthwhile developments in the world have been the result of having to withstand their withering scorn. Until the supreme court of the United States has had time to grow some more fibrous Americans to take the place of the ones now growing too old to fight any longer, retirement of the last surviving members of the old guard is nothing to be happy about. It doesn't take much fiber to say, "Yep, that's right, boss."

KEEPING UP WITH THE MOTOS

Patriots whose idea of diplomacy is an ax handle in one hand and a brick in the other won't find it easy to understand why their Uncle Samuel is offering to play patty-cake with Russia. It isn't their idea of dignity and the whole affair offends their sense of smell.

The answer apparently is as simple as figuring out what happened when there is a crash, the cat gallops out of the living room and the goldfish bowl is found shattered on the floor with one fish missing. Tass, the Soviet news agency, has just announced extension of an agreement about fishing rights with Japan and hoped it will constitute "a step forward in the matter of the improvement of Soviet-Japanese relations."

At the same time, Foreign Minister Matsuoka has been telling the Japanese diet that Japan is ready to pay any price to insure Russia's benevolent neutrality in a Pacific war. He also told the diet that unless the United States admits Japan's right to be master of the far east, his country will have to oppose this country, even to the extent of entering the European war.

Occasionally, in a blinding flash of reality, it is seen that the most dangerous game the United States is playing in this war is in the Pacific and that the only Americans who realize it are a few dozen members of the state department.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, January 25

REMARKABLE opportunity for high accomplishment, with stabilization of fortune, prestige and position, is read from this day's astral configurations. It should be a time to push to high goals with the backing of worth, merit and responsibility to warrant such aims. These must be set before those in advanced positions and power who may recognize merit where it is.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of splendid success, advancement and recognition born of their own background of stability, worth, experience and sound ability that may meet the test of high place and power in the realm of great accomplishment. It is a time for working diligently and with integrity for such climax.

A child born on this day will have much ability and stability in both talent and character and should attract the support of those in power.

THE RUMANIAN TROUBLE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The bloody Rumanian revolt, which is officially attributed to youthful extremists in the pro-Nazi Iron Guard and to "notorious Communists," would appear to have got much of its impetus from dissatisfaction with conservative leanings of the military dictator, General Antonescu, especially as regards financial and economic policies.

Mixed with this is a certain amount of violent opposition to the Nazi occupation. And we cannot ignore the Rumanian charge that Russian Communists are exploiting the situation in order to make it difficult for the Germans to retain their hold on the country.

It is almost axiomatic that any Balkan upheaval must be surrounded by mystery. The Rumanian affair is no exception, but it is easier to analyze if we set the facts down simply without looking for too much hidden meaning.

When Antonescu last September forced King Carol's abdication and established a military dictatorship, the coup was achieved with the support of the powerful Iron Guard. The dictatorship was definitely pro-Nazi and shortly subscribed to the Axis. The general made the Iron Guard the sole political party, and became its "spiritual" leader.

It is important to remember these things when we consider the split which has developed in the Iron Guard.

The government is made up of various classes. Financial and economic matters, however, are in the hands of conservatives—experienced members of the old regime of the king.

Here is said to lie the bone of contention with the radicals. They are dissatisfied with the dictator because he has turned control of finances over to the conservatives.

The Germans would appear to have kept aloof as far as possible. The idea that they inspired the trouble to facilitate the taking over of Rumania doesn't hold water. The Nazis could assume control of Rumania without building a bonfire on their own doorstep.

However, it is my personal view that the Nazi occupation is for the purpose of establishing a strategic base for either offensive or defensive military operations, or both. That, and to make sure that Rumania remains within the Nazi fold.

FACTS ABOUT MOUTH INFECTIONS

Common Forms of Acute Trouble Listed by Physician

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Two common forms of acute trouble in the mouth are (1) canker sores and fever blisters and (2) an acute infection of the gums and inside of the cheek.

Canker sores may be single or multiple; may be on the tongue, the inside of the cheek or on the soft palate. They last from three to five days and are always painful and sometimes quite deep. They are frequently accompanied

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest on y, and then only through his column by fever blisters on the lips, often extending on to the cheeks. Some people seem to be especially susceptible and have recurrences throughout life from factors that we know little about. They are often ascribed to indigestion without much reason. They are probably some form of an infection, perhaps of the nerve ganglia, but it is certain that no immunity develops because one attack is liable to predispose to another.

Alkali Treatment
The best treatment seems to be the use of concentrated alkalies, such as sodium bicarbonate or triple phosphates.

Another form of acute infection of the mouth occurs mostly in children between one and three years. It consists in infection of the gums particularly, which may spread to the inside of the cheeks and soft palate. It begins with fever, general aches, and the patient is really ill for several days. Ulcers appear on the gum margins, which prolong the convalescence.

It should be noted that this form of infection is communicable by eating utensils, dishes and towels and in a household where one case appears, these articles used by the patient should be separated from those of the rest of the household and boiled after use.

Treatment of Gum Infection

The treatment which has been found most effective as given by a New York dentist is:

Have the patient rinse the mouth with a mouth wash if he is old enough to do so. Weak peroxide solution is useful. Dobol's solution, diluted half and half, is also good. The kind of mouth wash is not important, but a thorough cleansing is.

The ulceration should be touched with chronic acid solution, put on cotton applicators. This, however, should be left to a dentist or physician and only employed in the severe cases.

The subject is pertinent because in some communities this year, epidemics of stomatitis of that sort have occurred and it is important when any one case has been discovered to institute preventive precautions as outlined above.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. Y.:—"How long should one wait after a major operation before going to work either as a waitress or a press operator?"

Answer—As long as possible. In other words, as long as economic circumstances permit. I believe that at the least three or four weeks of convalescence should be allowed for any major operation. Better three or four to six months. It takes a long time for adjustments, physical and mental, to be made under such circumstances

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

L.C.B.A. Marks Anniversary With Program, Entertainment

Miss Margaret Carroll of Lakewood, supreme trustee, and Mrs. James Lubro of Leetonia, president of the district senate and of the Leetonia chapter, were out-of-town guests at the 40th anniversary banquet and entertainment of the Ladies Catholic Benevolent association at the Knotty Pine room, Lake hotel, last night.

Scrolls in leather covers tied with yellow ribbon contained the menu and program booklets. Individual corsages were favors. Places were arranged for 72 at the tables.

Mrs. J. C. Burke, president, welcomed the members and guests.

Rev. Fr. J. A. Mahan, who gave the benediction, had a short talk.

Gifts were presented to two of the four charter members, who are: Mrs. Alex McLaughlin and Mrs. George Shriver of Salem, both of whom were present; Mrs. Anthony Barrett of Massillon and Mrs. Catherine Mellinger of Lake Worth, Fla.

Mrs. Burke, president of the local branch, No. 654, and Miss Carroll, supreme officer, received corsages from the members.

The program included: Piano solo, Mary Catherine Scullion, a junior member; talk on the L. C. B. A., its work and principles, Miss Carroll; vocal solo, "Songs My Mother Taught Me", Mary Elizabeth O'Neill; a history of the 40 years' activities of the Salem group, prepared by Miss Rose McLaughlin, was read by Mrs. Burke; talk by Mrs. Lubro of Leetonia; songs, the L. C. B. A. ode and the "Star-Spangled Banner".

Cards and bingo were enjoyed, prizes in bridge going to Miss Anne McLaughlin and in "500" to Mrs. Ida Alaback.

Women's Society Has Program

Mrs. Claude Ruckman of East Liverpool, Steubenville district president, and Mrs. E. L. Lafferty of Wellsville, chairman of the district spiritual life committee, were guests at a meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service in the Methodist church here yesterday afternoon.

Fifty church women present heard interesting talks by the guests.

Mrs. Ruckman, who commended the Salem church women on their work as the largest society in the district, stressed the need for emphasizing missionary activities as well as participation in local church activities.

She discussed the organization of the society which now has 86 branches with 5300 members in this district. The nation-wide organization, setting a goal of 750,000 members by Oct. 1, 1940, at the beginning, had reached a membership of one million by that date. A two million membership quota is set for this year.

Mrs. Lafferty discussed the duties of the spiritual life committee in the local society.

Mrs. Charles Cornwell led the devotional service, using as her subject, "Brotherhood".

Tea was served by Group 2, headed by Mrs. F. F. Wells and a sale was conducted by Group 4, with Mrs. Fred Lewis as leader.

An evening meeting is planned for the next general session Feb. 27 in the church.

Jollyette Members Entertained

Jollyette club members met at the home of Mrs. Robert Lopenam of E. Eighth st. Thursday evening.

Mrs. Glen Whitehill, Mrs. Otis Fick and Miss Mildred Barber won the prizes in "500." Lunch was enjoyed.

Students Taught Intricacies of Balloon Flying

(By International News Service) AKRON—Balloon flight training may sound rather prosaic in these days of stream-lined, high-powered aeroplanes, but 17 young men in training at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. are quite serious about lighter-than-air operations.

The students, hand-picked from a big list of applicants, are preparing to play a big role in national defense and, although they are being trained by private enterprise rather than the United States Army, officials believe they will be ready for any emergency.

The course consists of two schools—flight and ground. If the student gets through the Goodyear course, however, he is capable of passing the physical, educational and actual flight training requirements established by the United States Naval Reserve.

Karl L. Fickes, manager of Goodyear's ship operations, is in charge of the course.

LOCK SAYS:

Our Home Made Scrapple is surely becoming famous! Last week we sent a shipment to Elm-hurst, Ill. Almost weekly we send it to Cleveland, Pittsburgh and other distant cities. Good news travels fast is proven in our scrapple sales! As people have found we make it with lots of meat, not to meet competitive prices but to beat competition quality. That's why we sell it at a higher price. We sell our Home Made Scrapple at 2 lbs. for 25c. Many stores sell it for 10c lb. and some as low as 3 lbs. for 25c. Remember this, the cheaper the price, the more corn meal used and not meat.

If you want Mush and not Scrapple, we sell it and advertise it as such. We make it in our own kitchen and retail it per pan (weighing 1 1/2 lb. to 2 b.) for 10c. Oh yes, we just received another barrel of that famous Edward's Home-made Kraut. The people who have used it, know its tops in Bulk Kraut. It sells at the low price of 4 lbs. for 19c. For a real treat try any of the above items mentioned.

UNIVERSITY SHOWS RARE HORSE TWINS

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Horse twins are rare, and the only Arabian pair alive today in the United States are at the University of California's Kellogg Institute of animal husbandry near Pomona.

Scientists say Arabian twins are rare and set their chances of survival at only one in 100,000. Yet these two dark grey horses, Calsabiyat a filly, and Calsabi a colt, are as healthy and frisky as any on the ranch.

The pair is now being trained to perform as the shows presented every Sunday afternoon, and are rapidly becoming favorites among the visitors.

DEATHS MOUNT IN RUMANIAN RIOTS

German and Rumanian Motorized Troops Patrol Bucharest Streets

men troops finally will have to establish order," the traveler said. British army units moved westward from captured Tobruk toward Derna, Lybia, the next big Italian fortress on the Mediterranean coast. Motorized patrols already were reported near Derna and Bomba. The latter is an Italian seaplane base which the British said was abandoned because of heavy RAF raids.

The British said they took at least 14,000 Italians in the assault on Tobruk. Another report from Australia said Army Minister Percy Spender had received word that 25,000 prisoners had been taken and that Australian casualties "would not exceed 300."

Haile Selassie, ex-emperor of Ethiopia, now is in Ethiopia actively leading his loyal tribesmen in a revolt against their Italian conquerors. It was disclosed today. He entered Ethiopia from the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan in a British bomber Jan. 15.

In Albania the Greek army captured another 250 Italian prisoners in bitter fighting north of Kilsura. Athens dispatches said.

Horse Pilots

TUCSON, Ariz. — There's a bit of cavalry duty in store for the air corps next week. While planes of the 88th reconnaissance squadron, Ford Douglas, Utah, bomb a target area south of Tucson, a number of pilots will be on patrol duty to keep the public away.

City Manager George Seeley procured horses for the "grounded" airmen.

YEARS NEEDED FOR CHINCHILLA COAT

17 Genuine, Full-Length Coats in the United States Today

INGLEWOOD, Cal. — With only 17 genuine, full length chinchilla fur coats in the United States today, it will still be another generation before another one can be made, according to Willis D. Parker of the Chapman Chinchilla Ranch here, the largest of its kind in the country.

Since chinchillas were first brought to the United States from Peru in 1923, only one chinchilla coat has been made, Parker said. This was made from "casualty" pets of the pets of animals that died or males that were unfit for breeding. It was made from 120 pets and is valued at $35,000.

"At the present rate of breeding in the United States," Parker said, "there will not be another chinchilla coat made in the country during the present generation."

All are Registered
The 17 chinchilla coats now owned in this country are known and registered and a constant check is kept on them. One of the coats, said to be 65 years old, still is worn by all opening nights of the Metropolitan Opera in New York, according to Parker.

Chinchilla raising in the United States first was undertaken by the late M. F. Chapman of this city, a mining engineer who had worked for years at Puertorricas, Chile. He brought back 11 chinchillas and nearly all chinchillas in America, now numbering several thousand, are descendants of these original ones.

At present, Parker said, there are 42 farms in the nation which obtained their original stock from the Chapman ranch here.

The Chapman company investigations each year before any chinchillas are sold and afterwards keeps in constant touch with the raisers, giving them necessary advice. It also handles all transactions regarding pets.

The animals sell for $3,200 a pair and there is no return on the investment for two or three years thereafter. The chinchillas whelp twice a year, but the litter rarely exceeds two.

"It's a great business for those who aren't in for quick profits, but if you are impatient, you better stay out," Parker advised.

Another Farm at Berkeley

In addition to the Chapman ranch here, Dr. James W. Mitchell of Berkeley, Cal., who was an associate with Chapman in Peru, where Mitchell passed 17 years, also has started a promising farm with a different breed of chinchillas. These are known as the "Boliviano" or "Chinchilla Real," the most striking difference between the "royal" chinchilla and the others being that they have smaller ears.

It required 18 years for Mitchell to acquire his original 18 chinchillas in Chile. He and his wife used six tons of ice to maintain the proper temperature for them aboard ship while being brought to the United States.

They now have 23 animals valued at $1,600 each. Nine of these pairs are the original ones brought from South America and the others are first generation Americans.

The animals look like a cross between a rabbit and a chipmunk whose father was a great horned owl. Almost round when in repose, they can leap 15 times their own length.

As their natural habitat is the high, cold reaches of the Andes, it

Raps Lend Bill

Hanford MacNider

Unsuccessful contender for the Republican presidential nomination last June, Hanford MacNider of Mason City, Ia., is pictured as he testified as an opposition witness to the lend-lease bill before the house foreign affairs committee in Washington. MacNider, a former assistant secretary of war, described the bill as "a direct scuttling of our form of government and betrayal of the American people."

is necessary to keep them in a cool even temperature. They live and thrive in a refrigerator.

WELLSVILLE, W. Va. — The New Era, once among the finest of the Ohio river ferryboats, has been ordered taken out of service, and its operators indicated that lack of trade and extensive repairs might necessitate a permanent suspension of service.

The Evzones—Greece's Soldier Elite

Win, lose or draw, the Evzones, Greece's famous mountain troops, who can rightly claim the lion's share in the rout of the Italian forces in Greece, have long been among the crack units of the Greek army.

They won their first laurels during the Greek War of Independence against Turkey (1821-32.) During the Balkan Wars of 1912-13 they likewise excelled in courage and daring. Thus their exploits in the present conflict with Italy are merely another chapter in the extraordinary history of these colorful mountain fighters.

The Evzone regiments are recruited from the mountaineers of northern and central Greece. They are descendants of peasants who settled in the Pindus and Epirus Mountains, preferring the hard and dangerous mountain life to the oppressive rule of their Turkish overlords.

The individualistic spirit of their forefathers still lives on in the Evzones. Although there are about 15,000 men in the Greek army, they seldom fight in large units. Rather, they harass the enemy by guerrilla warfare, fighting in groups of ten or twelve. Death means little to these men who face it all their lives. Reckless and relentless, they perform deeds of extraordinary daring. In the second Balkan War, two Evzone brothers overwhelmed single-handed a Bulgarian battery manned by thirty soldiers, and this was but one of many similar exploits.

Clothes and equipment of the Evzones are adapted to the particular requirements of mountain warfare. Evzones wear kilts, called fustanellas, the garb of all Greek mountaineers, and under it a close-fitting white hose. To the latter they owe their name, for Evzone means well-girded. Fustanellas and hose are an effective protection against the dense underbrush which covers the slopes of the Pindus Mountains.

The shoes of the Evzones are long, heelless pumps with turned-up points. As these points bend back, the shoes are very springy and therefore extremely practical for mountain-climbing. A white baggy shirt, a sleeveless, richly embroidered tunic and a fez-like cap complete the uniform.

His kit consists of nothing more than a blanket, haversack, saucepan and water bottle. In order not to impede his mobility, he can carry with him only very small rations. If these are exhausted, he often subsists on raw meat.

The only weapons of the Evzones are rifle and bayonet. With hand-to-hand fighting their favorite method of attack, the latter is of special importance.

In every war, the Evzones are entrusted with missions which require particular skill and courage. They are always the first to attack and the last to withdraw. In the present war, they covered the retreat of the Greek forces during the first days of the Italian invasion, then formed the vanguard of the troops which drove the Fascists back into Albania.

Greece knows well how much she owes to the daring and endurance of these mountain troops. After the Balkan Wars, King George I openly acknowledged the exceptional position of the Evzones by introducing the practice of recruiting the Royal Guard exclusively from Evzone units. Ever since, specially selected Evzones, each one of them at least seven feet tall, have filled the ranks of the Guard.

DEFEND FREEDOM, STOCKDALE'S PLEA

Compares U. S. Way of Life With That of Nations Of Europe

freedom, that has provided all these material blessings, and without that freedom those things which make up our standard of living would become only memories.

"Exactly what is the American Way of Life?" he asked. "Everyone is inclined to consider that his or her own opinions and prejudices about customs and institutions, principles and practices, represent the 'American way'. The term is used to represent the most contradictory ideas! Nevertheless, there are principles and practices that are distinctly American, that all true Americans believe in, and foremost among them is a fundamental conception of freedom, the most priceless part of our heritage."

The Pattern of Freedom
Continuing, Dr. Stockdale said "here in America we have built up our civilization and drawn our social pattern on a basis of individual freedom. That means freedom of worship, of speech, and press and assembly, of residence and movement; liberty to pursue an occupation of one's own choice, to acquire and own property, and to enter into voluntary association with others in private enterprise; and the right to participate in government through representatives whose arbitrary power is restricted by basic and statutory law and who are periodically accountable to the people.

"We can't remind ourselves too often of the foundations that underlie our American way of life—of the three pillars which uphold our individual and national freedom. The first is representative democracy; the second, civil and religious liberty; and the third, free private enterprise devoid of any form of despotic tyranny or state socialism. These three pillars stand or fall together.

"These rights and freedoms which Americans have are not absolute rights," he added. "We impose limits by custom and by public authority. But we adhere to the pattern and we recur to it whenever it is temporarily disregarded. This individual freedom must be maintained, limited only in order to preserve the maximum of it for all. For in the freest possible exercise of individual initiative and energy we see the main-spring of our past achievement and the guaranty of a greater future—the fulfillment of the promises of American life."

"No other plan of human relations has produced or is producing a like result. Certainly the totalitarian system now spreading over Europe—and not without their advocates here—bear no fruit that we crave. We believe in hard work—but in occupations of our own choice; in discipline—but self-discipline; in individual duties—and group duties—but not imposed by arbitrary power; in cooperation—but of free people."

Not Accident of Nature
"Free institutions, affording the maximum of individual opportunity are not an accident of nature, like the climate. They do not persist like the sun, moon and stars, for whose existence and movements and continuance we feel no responsibility. Generations of vigorous, industrious and adventurous people have established these institutions. Only people of the same sort can safeguard and maintain them," the speaker contended.

"We hear and read frequently that as a people we have become softened by our experience of prosperity and later by an increasing reliance on government. It was not a soft, easy-going irresponsible people, that made America. Nor can such a people defend itself in this world of today.

"Fortunately, we are not fundamentally of that sort. The individual initiative, the individual sense of responsibility, the individual self-confidence of our forefathers have not died out in us. We are beginning to realize that we must bring out and dust off these qualities. It is only by individual sacrifice, individual hard work, and individual devotion that we can protect our heritage in the present crisis. And after the present emergency is past we shall not bring our country back into the road of progress if we then relax into complacency.

"In a word, you can't have individual freedom without individual responsibility, and each generation must earn its right to be free."

Dr. Stockdale was introduced by W. L. Hart, president of the Business Bureau.

City Bowlers Are Set For Annual Tourney, Opening Monday

QUAKER CAGERS TO FACE SOUTH AT YOUNGSTOWN

Coach Roselle Reports His Squad In Best Condition of Year

Still seeking their third victory of the season, Salem High school bowlers will trek to Youngstown Saturday night to try their luck against South's rangy basketweavers, at the new South High field house.

As an added attraction on Saturday's program Youngstown college will tangle with Indiana college, N. Y. The reserve fracas will open the festivities at 7:30 p. m.

South's new coach, Merrill Roselle, did not help the Quakers' chances any when he announced today that his squad would be in top shape for the first time since Dec. 13. This is Roselle's first year at the Youngstown school. He formerly coached at Canfield, where his cagers fought their way to the finals in the Class B state tournament last year.

Riddled With Injuries

South's record shows three wins and six defeats so far this year but this is partly due to the fact that the first team has been riddled with injuries and sickness during most of these contests. The three wins were over New Castle, Hubbard and Niles, who conquered Salem. The Steel City lads trimmed Niles by some 20 points.

The probable starting lineup for South will have Davenport and Zabel at the forwards, Hancock at center, and Weaver and Heckman at the guards. These five are blessed with plenty of height, Davenport and Heckman at six feet, one inch, Weaver at an even six, and Hancock at six, two.

Coach Roselle is doubtful as to whether Hancock can be depended on for much service. The big pivot man has been on the shelf with a bad ankle since the first of the season.

Weaver and Davenport threats. However, the two lads that will probably cause the locals the most trouble are Weaver and Davenport. These boys carry the brunt of South's attack.

The Quakers' opening lineup is rather doubtful. Coach Brown is still experimenting with various players in trying to find a successful combination. The lads that are most likely to get the call are McGaffie, Baillie, Cozad, Guappone, Vello or Jaeger.

After last week's disaster, the locals have switched back to a man-to-man defense. This style of defense is especially suited to a big floor such as South's.

BAKER CONFIDENT OF GOOD SEASON

Not Predicting Flag, But He's Sure He Won't Finish In Cellar

(By Associated Press) LAKELAND, Fla., Jan. 24.—Detroit's Baker isn't predicting that the Detroit Tigers will win the 1941 American league pennant but says "we're no worse off than we were a year ago."

Since they were good enough a year ago to launch a drive that took them into the world series, it would seem the Detroit manager doesn't expect them to finish in the cellar this year.

"Practically everybody placed us in fifth place in pre-season predictions last year," Baker said today at his winter home here, "but somehow we fooled 'em."

"They're already busy counting us out of the race again this year but I imagine our rating will be raised a notch to fourth place, since we did come through to win last season."

Taking inventory of his squad, Baker said that a flock of young pitchers will be coming up to help the Newsom-Bridges-Rowe combine; that the catching staff is one of the most capable in baseball; that the aging infield has been strengthened by the addition of Eric McNair "who I think has a lot of good baseball left in him"; and that the outfield is pretty well set if Uncle Sam doesn't take big Hank Greenberg for army service.

Baker is not the worrying type, so he's not dwelling on the thought of the big hole in the outfield if Greenberg is inducted into military service about May or June.

"We hear Hank may be called up this spring," Baker said, "but of course we won't know anything definite for some time. Hank has flat feet and they might turn down, but they tell me they don't pay much attention to flat feet any more since armies started riding instead of marching."

Concerning the infield situation, which is the chief worry of Detroit fans hopeful of another pennant, Baker asserted he believed it is every bit as good as a year ago.

BOWLING RESULTS

Jim Burrell, rolling with the Machinists, set a new three game high in the Electric Furnace league last night at the Masonic alleys, chalking up a 225, 229, 209 for a 654. This score helped his team to take two out of three from Electricians who surrendered first place to the Purchasing Department as a result.

The Purchasers took the lead with two wins over the Draftsmen while the Office swept three from the Transformers.

The Structural Department made a clean sweep over the Shippers. The Crescent Machine five continued to hold a fat first place lead in the Commercial loop, taking two out of three from the Leontonia Eagles at the Grate alleys last night. The second-place Washingtonville L. O. O. F. was idle.

Zimmerman's Olds knocked the Palace Lunch out of a third place tie by trouncing them three straight. Goist led the Olds with a 611 total.

The People's Lumber and Smith's Creamery remained deadlocked for third place honors, the Lumbermen taking two games from Bliss while Smith's gained two from the Jaycee All-Stars.

The Trades Class edged the Polo Club two out of three.

RUDIBAUGH'S TOP CLASS B; DEMINGS CUT DOWN Y.P.C.C.

League-Lead Tie Is Broken Up; Schoians Win In Class A

The Class B Rudibaugh's led the loop today as a result of the victory of the Deming club, 43 to 35, over the Y. P. C. C. last night. The latter club was tied with Rudibaugh's for the top rung but now will battle it out with the Deming combine for second place.

Allen was the big gun in the Deming attack, sinking eight field goals and three free throws for 19 points. Hippley paced the losers with 11 markers.

The league-leading Rudibaugh's added another setback to the Orphans' list in Class A play with a 34 to 25 triumph.

Shears and W. Schaeffer shared scoring honors for the winners, both garnering 12 tallies. Kloon and Wagner led the losers with seven points each.

The Baptists edged out the Methodists, 16 to 14, in a close battle. Two free throws was the margin of victory.

Farker collected five markers for the winners while the Methodist point-making was well divided.

Sign of the Times

SACRAMENTO, Calif. - California's yellow school buses may be given a patriotic dress.

Assemblymen Don Allen and Robert Green introduced a bill to paint the vehicles red, white and blue.

SPOKANE, Wash. - Spokane has been steadily losing its marriage business to North Idaho cities - because that state has no law requiring couples to wait three days after taking out a license. The county auditor's office reveals that issuance of marriage licenses here showed a 43 per cent drop.

"HONEYMOON PREFERRED" by May Christie

SYNOPSIS

How could she win back Walter Mallory, well known lawyer? That was the question uppermost in the mind of Jean Garrett, lovely young debutante as she danced with Tommy Alden, society playboy at the Yacht Club. A few nights previous, Walter had told her he would not be third man in a party which included philandering Pedro de Moraes and Tommy, and had dropped out of the picture. To add to Jean's chagrin, he was squiring the beautiful Helen Hobart to night. Overhearing a remark that Walter was planning a party aboard his yacht later that night, Jean contrives to see him alone, hoping he will invite her. He treats her coldly and refuses to permit a photographer to take their pictures together, sarcastically remarking, "Press agent stuff isn't my line." Piqued because Walter didn't invite her either, Helen Hobart induces Tommy to slip out of the club with her and board Walter's cruiser, "Story Petrel," for a fast ride. Suspecting mischief, Jean follows and tries in vain to get Tommy off the boat. Just as she starts it, Helen jumps back on the pier, leaving Jean alone with him. Later in the cabin, Jean's curiosity gets the better of her and she peeks into the clothes closet. What a shock! Next to Walter's clothing were a woman's pajamas and negligee! A patrol boat orders Tommy to stop. He refuses. A shot cuts the mast in two and Tommy's arm is pierced by a flying splinter. "Why don't you stop when you're ordered?" a stentorian voice bawled, as the police came aboard.

CHAPTER FOUR

Jean faced the speaker. Four men were with him. She presented a grotesque appearance in the moonlight. One arm supported Tommy, propping him against her blood-spattered evening bodice with its torn skirt. Her hair had been blown to wild disorder. Her eyes were dazed. There was a black smudge on her cheek.

But she held her aching head up bravely. "Who are you? And what authority have you to tell us to stop?"

"Maybe you'll tell it to the judge, young woman!" the man retorted. "The judge? But we've done nothing wrong!"

He barked: "This is piracy! You'll laugh on the wrong side of your face when you get ten years!"

Light dawned. She went deadly white. The river police!

"That's the stretch the law demands for piracy," the man went on.

Still clutching Tommy, who was badly shaken, she managed to keep her head up, to tell them: "I'm Jean Garrett."

"And I'm the King of England. You're both under arrest."

A blinding flash as the news-cameraman beside him took their picture, murmuring: "Gee, what a scoop!"

Then he added, louder: "Thank you, Miss Garrett. Now, the young gentleman's name, please?"

Tommy came to. He made a stab for the camera. But the cameraman, accustomed to such sorties, side-stepped him.

One of the patrolmen put his coat about her. All argument proved useless. Tommy and Jean were taken ashore and lodged in the nearest jail.

"This is a sweet mess!" thought Jean, over and over, during the two hours' solitary cogitation that followed their arrest.

It was her "missionary" spirit that had brought her to this! Why, oh, why hadn't she let Tommy alone? Why had she taken on the role of guardian angel? Keeper? Why had she tried to stop him drinking, and then followed him and Helen out of the club, in fear that he would attempt to drive his auto? Have a serious accident?

What was Tommy to her? Only a friend-of-sorts. It was her idealistic conception of friendship and its obligations that had led her away.

The ironical part was Walter. She wanted Walter. How could she explain to him that it was to save Tommy she had gone aboard his boat? He either wouldn't believe her—attribute a very different motive—or he would think she was crazy about Tommy.

Her mouth twisted as she thought of Helen. It must have been none other than Helen who had made the wager with him, and dared him to take the wheel. Helen had saved her own skin at the last minute, which was probably what she'd intended from the beginning. Jean had played right into Helen's hand by going aboard the boat. And it was she who would have to face the consequences, now, and not Helen!

She'd give all the tea in China if her stepfather didn't hear the bad news! Rupert was a darling, but a staunch stickler for etiquette. Still dazed from her fall, her mind reeled doubly when she thought of that picture of their arrest, and the lurid captions!

If only they'd let her phone Walter, he'd knock the head off that cameraman—he'd smash the plate—he'd stop the presses printing it—he'd hate to see her in this jam!

"They'll be churning out the picture in tens of thousands now!" she told herself, miserably.

Heavy footsteps sounded down the stone passage. Jangle of keys in the cell's door.

An officer—and with him, Walter Mallory! He stared at Jean for a long moment, wrapped as she was in the police coat. No sign of sympathy in the keen blue eyes.

"I'm sorry you were troubled, officer," he said curtly, "but there

I'd given the police the name, number and description of my boat when I saw that it was gone from the pier. I'm told," he added sharply, "they semaphored you with lights, but you wouldn't stop."

"Neither of us understood the signals—"

"Nor the sirens either, I suppose?" His tone and gaze seemed to say, wordlessly: not in the condition you were in, naturally!

Which was unjust, for she hadn't had one cocktail at the dance, although she was aware she must be looking it.

"How's Tommy?" she faltered.

"Better than he deserves. What I should give him is a darn good hiding," came the disconcerting answer.

"Is it—I mean, could you take us back to town in your car?" knowing she had no money with her, and that Tommy was in his usual broke condition.

"Sorry I can't oblige," said Walter stiffly. "I'm driving in the opposite direction to join my party at the Cruise Club. I sent them ahead of me."

An embarrassing pause. Then a worse slap.

"You'll have to take a taxi," he said, "And may I suggest that you both stop at one of the all-night drugstores and have a stiff bromo-seltzer?"

She managed to get into her stepfather's house by the service entrance. The butler answered the night-bell. She told him to go so.

around the corner and give six dollars to a waiting taxi-driver. He did so.
